

Empowering Entrepreneurs—Sitting Down with the Founders of E-Cell, MIT

College student's minds are usually a melting pot of ideas, passion and creativity—the three essentials of a budding start-up venture. The E-Cell, co-founded by Dhwanit Shah, Armaan Charania, and Ankit Jajoo, third-year students at MIT, promises to provide direction and resources to those incredible minds that dare to look at their futures in a different light.
